Miami, FL – July xx, 2007 – Dorta & Ortega, P.A., an established Coral Gables-based law firm with clients throughout the United States and Central and South America, today announced the certification of Mr. Rey Dorta and Mr. Omar Ortega as contract advisors by the National Football League Players Association (NFLPA). Mr. Dorta and Mr. Ortega recently attended an NFLPA-sponsored seminar in Washington D.C. focused on the NFL contract advisors' relationships with their clients and the NFL. The two were certified after completion of the aforementioned seminar and passing a written exam.

The intensive seminar covered topics including the collective bargaining agreement, contract negotiations, the salary cap, substance abuse and banned substances. According to Mr. Omar Ortega, partner at Dorta & Ortega, their certified status allows Mr. Dorta and Mr. Ortega to provide their player clients with quality representation regarding legal issues not only related to player's employment with member clubs but those that will arise in the player's everyday life.

"Most importantly, we can insure that during the scope of any negotiations, the player is protected physically and economically during the course of their professional career and for years to come after retirement," said Ortega.
